Adegas Terrae works with autochthonous varieties, basing our production exclusively on grapes from our own vineyards.

The objective is to give priority to quality, achieving a wine with a low yield per vine. To make our wines we use red grapes from the Amandi subzone.

The orientation of our vineyards towards the Sil River, the microclimate of the area, the cultivation on slopes on top of walls, and the special care and the handcrafted work we give to the vineyard, are part of the philosophy of the winery.
